

BRYAN MAKES DENIAL IN EMPHATIC TERMS

DECLARES THAT HIS REQUEST FOR APPROPRIATION WAS MISINTERPRETED.

NO POLICIES CHANGED

Aid for Indigent Americans to Leave Mexico Has No Connection With Administration's Attitude.

Washington, Aug. 2.—Secretary Bryan today vigorously denied that his request to Congress to appropriate $100,000 for bringing back destitute Americans in Mexico had any connection with any policy the administration might evolve in dealing with the Mexican situation.

"In furthering aid to any indigent person to leave Mexico the government is simply doing what it does at any time when American lives are endangered and there is positively no excuse for anybody to misconstrue this question."

Secretary Bryan's request is merely one step further in the plan in solving the Mexican problem.

PREPARED FOR TRIAL OF DIGGS-CAMINETTI WHITE SLAVERY CASE

Sensational Action Will Come to Trial in San Francisco Monday—Of Far-reaching Import.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 2.—Every thing is in readiness for the beginning of the trial on Monday of the celebrated Diggs-Caminetti white slave case which developed into a cause celebre when it was made the medium for an attack on the official conduct of Attorney General McReynolds, and incidentally involved the Wilson administration in criticism.

The fact that the Republican members of the house of representatives are expected to bring the case up for debate at the first opportunity will cause the trial to be followed with additional interest.

The case had its beginning last March, when Drew Caminetti and Maury Diggs, the defendants, are alleged to have eloped with Marsha Warrington and Lola Morris, two high society women of Sacramento. The elopement led to the arrest and indictment of the two young men on charges of white slavery.

The case attracted considerable attention at the time because of the prominence of the defendant families. Diggs is a nephew of Marshall Diggs, once a member of California's senate, a man of wealth and strong political connections. The younger Diggs was state architect of Sacramento. The elopement led to the arrest and indictment of the two young men on charges of white slavery.

CONTRACTS DISEASE OF BERI-BERI BY A DIET OF HULLED RICE

German Scientist Supports Theory by Successful Experiment on Own Body—Administrators Own Remedy.

Berlin, Aug. 2.—Dr. Max Moszkowski, of Berlin, who has won distinction by his scientific researches in New Guinea, succeeded in giving himself an unmistakable case of beri-beri by living for 138 days upon a diet consisting almost exclusively of hulled rice. He believes his experiments support the theory formerly held by him, that beri-beri is a disease induced by certain foods and not due to an infection of any kind from without, as has been maintained by many investigators.

Dr. Moszkowski, who in 1911 advanced his theory in an address before the Berlin Medical Society, reported the results of the experiment which he has just finished. After a few weeks of hulled rice diet the nervous disturbances accompanying beri-beri appeared, and the case was then diagnosed as beri-beri by Dr. H. H. Huffer, the noted authority in this line. The typical dropsical affection of the skin followed, with soreness of certain groups of muscles, stomachic disturbance, and eventually the typical and dangerous irregularities of the heart action.

Dr. Moszkowski then treated himself with injections of an extract prepared from rice hulls. He recovered rapidly and the case was well injected. Injections of this extract also cured pigeons and hens which had become affected with beri-beri after a hulled rice diet.

Dr. Moszkowski believes the hulled rice contains a poisonous substance which is neutralized when the hulls are eaten. Furthermore, the fact that the phosphorus content of rice lies entirely in the hull probably is of importance. He believes that beri-beri has a distinct relation ship of scurvy and rickets.

Swindling Game Arrested. The local police have put an end to a most of livelihood employed by an attractive woman of Berlin, who dressed in widow's garb, gathered in considerable sums by a swindling game which had the merit of novelty and was based on a keen knowledge of human nature.

The woman's mode of operation was to station herself at a subway entrance, or before a post office, wait for a lonely looking man came in sight, start a conversation, and through her purse, and then cry out "I've been robbed!" Gallant males sympathizing with a woman in distress, generally started a conversation.

In the course of the talk they learned that she was a widow and lived in Charlottenburg, a fashionable district of the greater city. She could find various excuses for her behavior, whereat the chief one was that her eighteen-year-old daughter was difficult to manage and too fond of the society of men, although otherwise a dutiful and loving daughter. The widow then suggested that the man of $3 or $5 would save her from the control of a half dozen very ambitious young men who could today shake this country to its foundations by a panic, if they pleased. If an investigation were made of the panic of 1907 to

NOTEWORTHY INCREASE IN STATE'S EXPENSES

COST OF ITS GOVERNMENT IS MOUNTING VERY RAPIDLY THROUGH REFORMS.

FACTS NOT INSPIRING

Increase Nine Hundred Per Cent in Thirteen Years—The Farmer and the Railroads.

(By Ellis B. Usher.)
Milwaukee, Aug. 2.—The latest figures as to the appropriations of the legislature for the next biennial period, give the aggregate amount at $36,298,030. Certainly, when you figure this up, it is a very big sum, and it is very interesting to see how it compares with the amount of the previous biennial period. In 1901, the legislature appropriated $3,308,000 for the same purpose. This shows an increase of over $33,000,000, or almost five times as great.

It shows a steady and rapid increase in the cost of state government, an advance of almost 50 per cent in the cost of state government within a period of ten years is entitled to high rank among the facts worthy of consideration in all departments of government.

The increase in the succeeding thirteen years, from an average of $3,300,000 a year, in the decade to which the governor has referred, to an average of over $3,000,000, is in the language of the street, "going some." Instead of an increase of 50 per cent it is an increase of about 900 per cent.

Such facts ought to impress those who pay taxes or have any stake in the state's prosperity. But there are other facts quite as significant, perhaps more significant, because they directly affect the farmers, who have, for the past ten years, been the special care of our legislators. It is to accept professions and not results. In the message of Governor LaFollette to which I have referred, he begins an exordium upon the subject of the state's financial condition. He states that Wisconsin is an agricultural state. With comparatively few exceptions her cities are only centers of farm prosperity, and much more to urge education of the farmers, up to the legislature. A result of this policy is that the appropriations for the present biennial term are; for the university, $5,943,578, and for normal schools, $2,849,656 or a total of $8,793,234. This is an increase of $3,793,234 over the $5,000,000 more than it cost to run the entire state fifteen years ago, when Governor LaFollette thought the growth of expenses serious enough to give it a front place in his message to the legislature.

The United States Census, taken the year before Governor LaFollette's message was delivered, showed that the state had increased in population during the decade reported 382,162, or 22.6 per cent. All but eight of the seventy-one counties in the state shared in this increase, and the cities showed an increase of 50 per cent greater than the general increase in the entire state. The Census of 1910, tells a different story. The general increase drops to 12.5 per cent or 644,188 persons, an actual falling of the aggregate of 117,344 people. This loss was in the agricultural portions of the state. Milwaukee city alone represented one-third of the whole increase. Thirty-two counties in the state, showed a loss in rural population, and all but nineteen of these counties were saved from showing a loss, as counties, by the increase in their cities. Upon such figures, I commend them to the careful analysis of thoughtful and patriotic Wisconsin people. I am interested in them profoundly, because I am a working man and a taxpayer, but they should mean no more to me than to other people. It looks as if it were high time to awake to the difference between flub dub about "disastrous" conditions and real conditions. The truth is that but for the growth of the city of Milwaukee, and seven other cities that have above 25,000 population, the increase in the population of the state would have been about 10 per cent less. The farming country, too, would show much more loss, as a whole, but for the growth of the counties in the northern part of the state, which showed no such growth as in the previous decade.

Farmer and Railroads.
Some day, the farmer may awake up to the fact that all the fun he has been having going for the railroads, and the confidence of the public as well as the farmer's understanding that after all the hulla-balloo of years, the trusts that have been "dissolved" are not only making money out of it but they are assessing all the costs back upon the consumer. It doesn't take many cents added to the price of gasoline, for instance, to put back in the Standard Oil locker all the expense money that the government has been paying, and the farmer not only helps pay it, directly, for he owns gasoline engines and automobiles, but the merchant and every other middle man who sells him anything, passes it on to him in the goods he buys. It is a nice endless chain, this scheme of "taxing the other fellow," and the only man who can escape it is he has no taxes to pay, and who neither eats nor wears clothes. "That man is a dead one." I am fully aware that such a letter as this is very tiresome, I get tired myself, waiting for someone else to go into such unpleasant facts, for I am not going to run a race and I can't make a cent by being a bore. It does seem to me, however, that the people who will not investigate or listen to such obvious, but official, warning signals, are living on hope's like livin' on wind—a good way to get full but a poor way to get fat.

President Underwood's Prediction.
(Advertisement.)
The fact that President Underwood of the Erie is an important factor in the railway world got emphasis in the present wage discussion. That he has the confidence of the public as well as of the financial interests has been evident in the smooth way the Erie has got on in its large works of improvement. The latest estimate of the road's progress toward enlarged usefulness, I find in the Wall Street Journal, which says that the Erie's gross earnings for the fiscal year just closed were $62,203,000. In no previous year had they ever exceeded $57,000,000. During the past year $20,000,000 have gone into betterments, among which are 267 miles of second track. The Journal adds: "The importance of these improvements to the Erie can hardly be overstated. The 267 miles of second track under construction will provide a complete double track line between New York and Chicago and other improvements, such as grade reductions, enlarged classification yards, new yards and shops and a new equipment, will place the company in the front rank of eastern trunk line roads."

It is expected that this track work and other important improvements will be completed by the limit of next fall, when Mr. Underwood expects the capacity of the road to be increased by 50 per cent and the income will grow at the rate of $10,000,000, "right off the bat."

In Buffalo, recently, I found J. E. Ferguson who used to be a steel and iron salesman here, a few years back, just starting out a new concern, the Ferguson Steel and Iron Co. of which he is the head, that has good financial backing and excellent prospects. He has a lot of friends in Wisconsin who know that he deserves success and who wish him to go west and count down other Wisconsin men, that I found there is Frank Robbins, native of La Crosse. He is superintendent of the Buffalo divisions of the Erie Railroad, and is reckoned among the best of them in this ball of woe.

Parcels post receipts at the Milwaukee office were $121,363 for the first six months of this year. The outgoing packages numbered 7,010,700 and the incoming 13,000.

It pains me to see that dealing in futures is now called "gambling." A lot of board trade men have been prominent reformers, who got the gain of the other fellows' who got the gain. Our late legislature is to be congratulated. It put through about 300 fewer laws than its predecessor, but a record of more than 300 new laws is a record that they could have made through the heated terms as Congress does they might have increased, the run out, or output.

REPORT SUBMITTED BY HEALTH OFFICER

Births Exceeded Deaths by Ten During Month of July—Twenty-nine Rooms Were Fumigated.
Conditions of the public health in Janesville are in a very good condition according to the report of City Health Officer Dr. S. B. Buckmaster for the month of July. His report is as follows:

To the Honorable Mayor and Commissioners of the City of Janesville: Gentlemen:—
I hereby submit the report of the health officer for the month of July, 1913.
The health condition of the city has been very good; only four houses were placarded during the month for contagious diseases—three for measles and one for scarlet fever. During the month twenty-nine rooms were fumigated, three homes where deaths from tuberculosis had occurred, the others for measles. At the close of the month there were no cases of measles in the city—one for measles and one for scarlet fever.
Numerous complaints have been received—mostly anonymous—and conditions investigated.
As local history of vital statistics, I report the following statistics received, endorsed and forwarded to the State Board of Health after copies had been made for filing in this office and the County Clerk's office: Marriages, 10; births, 30; accidents, 28; deaths, 20; supplementary reports sent out to get given names of children, 4.
There are twenty deaths reported during the month, the causes of which are as follows: cerebral hemorrhage, 2; cerebral abscess, 1; pneumonia, 2; premature birth, 1; tuberculosis, 1; cancer, 1; heart disease, 1; nephritis, 1; senility, 1; arterio-sclerosis, 1; inanition, 1; still-born, 1.
Respectfully Submitted,
DR. S. B. BUCKMASTER,
Health Officer.

IRISH LEAGUE TO HELP HOME RULE MOVEMENT

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Boston, Mass., Aug. 2.—Measures for sustaining the Irish parliamentary party and its leader, John Redmond, in the closing stages of the Home Rule struggle, will be discussed by the national executive committee of the United Irish League of America at an important meeting in this city tomorrow. National President Michael J. Ryan of Philadelphia is here to attend the meeting, together with Patrick Byrne, former United States Minister to Chile, and a number of other noted leaders of the Irish cause. The principal object of the meeting is to devise ways and means by which the Irish party may be financially assisted as well as morally in the final stage of the Home Rule fight. As a result of plans to be formulated at the meeting, it is expected that $40,000 will be raised to aid the cause. The meeting will also call on a program of mass meetings to be held in every large city of the United States.

RETURNS STOLEN MONEY BUT KEEPS CANNED FRUIT

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Preston, Minn., Aug. 2.—This little village has a burglar operating in its midst, whose specialty is stealing the appeal for money, but whose sweet tooth cannot resist the temptation of newly preserved fruit. One night last week the home of Ruben Workman was robbed and five dollars in cash and two jars of fruit were taken. Yesterday Workman received an envelope containing a five dollar bill, with a note from an unknown person expressing regret for the theft. The jars came back too, but the fruit had been removed. Workman has accepted the peace offering and has called off the police.

ATTORNEY GENERAL STATES MANNING BILL IS ILLEGAL

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Aug. 2.—In the opinion of Attorney General Owen, the Manning bill, authorizing cities of the first class to issue bonds for the purchase of lands, to run for a longer than fifty years, is unconstitutional. In his opinion rendered to Executive Clerk Harry C. Wilbur, he says that so far as the bill attempts to confer upon municipalities the power to purchase lands for other than public purposes it is unconstitutional.

"If, however, it be constitutional," he concludes, "it must be so limited in its scope as to be practically ineffective and nugatory so far as creating new law or conferring new powers upon cities is concerned."

HOT WEATHER TALK

A dull head-ache, a pain back of the eyes, and ache all through his body warned a business man last week that his kidneys were not working properly. Now this man happens to know that when the kidneys do not perform their functions properly, the first thing to do is to get the skin to working to its fullest capacity. He knew that this takes the work off the kidneys and that the poisons that they excrete are thrown off by the skin.

He came to me and took one treatment. The next day he was at work as usual—feeling fine. Most business men are troubled this way in a mild form. That is, much of the work that should be done by the skin, is thrown on the kidneys, with disastrous results in later years.

EVERY-FAN. "Who might you be? Who might you be?"

"I asked the spectre there. 'Men call me everyfan,' said he. And sat him on a chair. 'The burden of my song is this—' He swept a salty tear— 'Perhaps our team this year's amiss— But watch us go NEXT YEAR!' 'What we would like to know is: Did the White Sox really and truly pay all that money for Larry Chappelle? The White Sox asseverate and avow, which is the same as declaring that they paid the equivalent of $25,000 for Larry, $15,000 in cold cash, giving Milwaukee Beall, said to value at $7,000 and a catcher who had a $5,000 tag on him. Grand sum total $25,000. Beall, a right-hander, is a big league player, no matter how brilliant. Not that it would be nice to view the White Sox statement, but the fact is rather hard to believe. Another thing, it's bad business to pay so much for a player. An awful handicap for the player in the first place and it has other disagreeable aspects. It is wise to overplay the commercial side of the game and make it appear that managers are making their profit out of sales, because, too much of this would shortly give the game a black eye. All-so bush managers would soon boost their prices and expect to get a big piece of change every time they let a player go.

Leach Cross, after his victory over Matty Baldwin, is hot on the heels of Willie Ritchie and has plenty of support and backing. Promoters and fight fans are raising high the capabilities of the Gotham pugilist, and are urging the signing of papers that will make the fight assured. Cross looks awfully good to some who have watched him of late and he has wide circle of supporters. In his battle with Baldwin, he is said to have fought very headily and had the veteran Bostonian going at every stage of the entertainment.

Jack O'Connor, manager of the St. Louis Federal league team, was at one time the terror of umpires and a bad actor on the diamond. Today he is as meek and well-behaved as a little boy speaking pieces and he wouldn't think of swinging on an umpire again. Because not long ago in a quarrel with an umpire he managed to break the umpire's jaw. A fine and suspension followed, of course, and also a suit was started. O'Connor was with one of the parties, and the injured umpire demanded $25,000 damages for the misfortune he had suffered. O'Connor is back in the game again and the club here, Jack, thought of getting him off the field. The umpire waved his arm toward the bench, indicating that O'Connor would please beat it to the clubhouse. Jack stood at the third base line a while in doubt and then turned towards the dressing rooms, he had remembered about that $25,000 suit.

FOOTBALL IS LOOMING UP ON THE HORIZON OF SPORTING WORLD

Schedule Makers Have Completed Tasks and Coaches Are Calling for Gatherings of Candidates.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

New York, Aug. 2.—Although the intercollegiate football season is still two months away the shadow of the gridiron game is already edging into the realms of sport. The schedule makers have completed their tasks and the coaches are issuing calls for the gathering of candidates. The first week of September will witness initial practice at a number of eastern and western colleges and before October is reached games will have been won and lost on many football fields. Judged from present indications, the coming season should produce football in both quality and quantity such as no previous autumn has witnessed. Few changes have been made in the playing rules and both coaches and players will require but little time in which to familiarize themselves with the code alterations. More than a thousand games are scheduled among the college eleven and if the high school and preparatory academy contests are included the 1913 games will total in excess of three thousand.

The college play opens with a few scattering games on September 20 and the contests multiply rapidly on succeeding Saturdays until the Thanksgiving Day games. The most popular in certain sections of the country, but with the exception of the Army-Navy game gridiron activity will ease with the holiday contests. A number of intercollegiate games will add interest to the short football season for Michigan, Syracuse, Cornell, Notre Dame, Carleton, Vanderbilt, and Pennsylvania. All are scheduled for long trips and games in hostile territory. One of the games of importance—the Harvard-Cornell match at Cambridge—is shown among the leading contests of the fall, but the usual clashes between the leading eleven of the country lost none of their charm and there is certain to be capacity attendance at a number of the games.

The first real test games will come early in October for on Saturday, October 4, Pennsylvania meets Lafayette which defeated the Quakers last autumn. A week later the Cardinals will play at Princeton, and on Saturday, October 18, will find the two eleven lined up: Amherst vs. Trinity, Colgate vs. Army, Dartmouth vs. Williams, Lafayette vs. Princeton, and Syracuse vs. Princeton. On Saturday, October 25, Princeton will play at Princeton, and on Saturday, October 25, Princeton will play at Princeton, and on Saturday, October 25, Princeton will play at Princeton.

with poison by which he eliminated the public choice, leaving the field clear for a clean-up by his backers. The scheme was exposed when Lord Bailey lost three of his best races at Newmarket in 1811. Dawson and a confederate named Bishop were arrested and the later turned King's evidence. Dawson was convicted of this and similar charges under an act which made it a capital offense to maliciously destroy horses and cattle. Dawson was hanged at the top of Cambridge castle in the autumn of 1812 before more than 10,000 spectators, many of whom had paraded his tips when he was a "tout" at Newmarket.

Hjerberg Describes Methods. Ernie Hjerberg, Sweden's national athletic director and trainer of the team which recently defeated the English athletes in an international dual meet nine events to four, describes his methods and preparations for the Olympic games at Berlin in 1916 as follows:

"I have four assistants to help me in my work now. For the early part of this year my men were at the universities of Göttingen, Lund, Upsala, and of course, Stockholm. Their work was to see that the university men were taught what to do and how to do it, and to report to me, while I was on my way to Sweden. The men were going on to give advice and instruction. I have planned to visit forty-four cities in Sweden this fall, spending one to three days at each, giving instructions to the local people, getting into touch with likely young runners and athletes, and kept informed of their progress; I shall attend all the big athletic meets, so that I can note improvement and the development of style, correct any little faults, and so on. As the season year, as soon as the season opens, I shall make flying trips around again to find out how the athletes and also sport in the districts is progressing.

CARDINAL GAME OF INTEREST TO MANY

Game With Rockford Highlands at Driving Park Sunday Will Be Close—Crandall Agains Jack

Tomorrow afternoon the Cardinals will play their fifteenth game of the season. So far this season they have won nine and lost five of the fourteen games played. Captain Hell heaves his hat in "Mighty" George Crandall, who will twirl for the Cards tomorrow. In the four games pitched for the Cards, Crandall has won three and lost one, and he does not seem to be in his best. There is no telling what will happen. He will be opposed by Jack Nelson. Wilson will do the receiving. His hitting has developed considerably during the past few seasons. Yesterday he batted one thousand, making three singles out of three trips to the plate.

The crowd last Sunday was surprising, and it is hoped that the number and a larger number will turn out tomorrow.

BEST BOATS IN AMERICA WILL BE IN THE RACE

Failure of the elimination trials at Huntington Bay, to develop an American team for the British international races in England this year was a few days ago, when the middle west motor boating interests are concerned, for officials of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association have advised Janesville boats which were operating in England will remain in this country, and not only that but the pick of the bunch will tear slits in the atmosphere at the Keokuk regatta August 26, 27 and 28th.

Tongue-Twister.

Try this on your vocal organ. Say it over several times, and say it fast: "A rat ran over the roof with a lump of raw liver in his mouth."

BASEBALL CHATTER.

"Long Tom" Hughes, of Washington, says that when his pitching days are ended he wants to become an umpire.

The Cincinnati Red Birds have been badly crippled of late with Tinker, Scherer, Marston and Berghammer on the sick list.

Now that the Pirates and the Cubs are playing their last few games, they may be able to shorten the space between them and the Giants.

"Cy" Seymour says he's mighty sorry to leave the Boston Braves, as he regards Manager McGraw and the members of the team as the best ever.

Pitcher "Baton" Knicker, the Brooklyn hold-out, has "jumped his job" with the Trolley Dodgers and signed with the Pittsburgh Federal league club.

With Montgomery, Mobile and Atlanta packed together at the top, the Southern league race is so hot that it seems to have failed to persevere when they lamp at the present time.

Catcher Frank Gibson, who belongs to the Detroit club, is making a great record at Nashville. It is expected he will return to the Tigers at the close of the Southern league season.

The youngsters are doing the heavy lifting in the American league, but in the National league the veteran players, Cravath, Grinnell, Kling, Tull, Wagner and Huggins, are leading the bunch.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

RAIN.

By Howard L. Rann.

Rain is a popular variety of extreme weather, which attains its greatest popularity about the first of August, when the parched lips of the corn crops can be seen from the rear seat of an automobile.

The weather bureau speaks of it as precipitation and measures it by the square inch. It is estimated that one inch of thick and continuous rain fall is worth a million dollars to any country with an annual mean precipitation of four inches.

For a great many years the process of manufacturing rain was a greater mystery than the birthplace of Darwin's original idea.

People used to think it was caused by two clouds trying to pass one the same truck, producing a heavy weeping spray on the part of some goddess: who would rather be a cloud, riding around in a tube skirt. The ancients did not maintain anybody to guess on the weather at that year, hence they never knew when it was going to rain, until they had walked into some of it in the form of a mud puddle.

In states where they do not have enough rain in one year to crowd a quart cup the farmers make their own precipitation with an irrigation pump. In some localities all of the precipitation is in the hands of a stock company, which rents it out by the barrel and fills the empty barrels with dividends after a man has rented enough water to mature ten acres of Early Rose potatoes, he will not feel like hiring any for lawn sprinkling purposes.

The rainy season is that period of the year when a man can't walk on to the barn to bed down the cow without having to swim back. Some of the Pacific coast states are so well supplied with rain that a Kansas cloudburst would be looked upon as a protracted drought.

Dew is a clinging form of rain which refuses to cling to low shores and reduces their surface to mud. It is the author of the dew-drop, which is used to put ineradicable freckles on the tan oxford.

DECLARES POINTDENTER BILL WILL BE GOOD EXPERIMENT

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Madison, Wis., Aug. 2.—Miss Helen Sumner, a well known writer on labor problems, who assisted in framing the Pointdenter bill now pending in congress to provide for profit sharing coal mine development in Alaska, is spending the summer in Madison, her home. She is writing a book with Prof. John R. Commons.

"This bill if it becomes a law," she said, "will mean that Alaska will become a laboratory for experiment in government ownership. It provides that government operation and private operation shall be tried out under the same conditions at the same time. It provides that the government shall purchase and operate a transportation system and shall divide the business of opening and operating the coal mines between itself and private parties under lease. This experiment is made in Alaska because its population is small and because the government owns practically all of the coal mines."

Miss Sumner said it is proposed to utilize a commission to handle the problems and that President Wilson will be sought to place it in right hands.

The bill was drawn by James MacKaye of Harvard university, Benton MacKaye, an authority on conservation and Miss Sumner.

ENTRIES SECURED BY SECRETARY ASSURED MEETINGS SUCCESS

Coming Light Harness Race Meet at Park Association Tracks Brings Many Entries.

Secretary Charles Putnam of the Janesville Park Association, is a busy man these days preparing for the big race meet scheduled for August 13th, 14th and 15th of the present month. Present indications are that there will be between a hundred and forty and a hundred and fifty entries for the various events and the total number may even be much larger.

By Every Mail. "Entries are coming in by every mail," said Secretary Putnam this morning. "There are more entries already received by a good number than there were contestants at the meet last August. In fact the total number will certainly reach one hundred and forty and perhaps a hundred and fifty or more, if present indications point to anything. Aside from the entries we are receiving many inquiries which may lead to some of the big strings being represented by good steeds by belated entries."

Preparing Everything. "I am preparing everything with a view of accommodating a hundred and fifty horses. Aside from the regular stable accommodations we will have a big tent-shipped from Madison, one hundred and fifty big light feet, in which the head of horses will be stabled. It promises to be one of the old fashioned race meets that made Janesville famous the country over in the days when this city was the center of the fast horse game of the state."

Excellent Shape. The track is in excellent shape, both the mile and half mile being in lightning form. They will be thoroughly worked out and dragged before the meet itself, so as to make the surface as near perfect as possible. The grounds have also been cleaned and beautified, and with the Power City Band in attendance for concerts between the various heats of the races it should prove a most enjoyable affair for the spectators.

Space for Autos. Park places for automobiles parties have also been arranged for and the roadways leading to the grand stand graded and put in shape. Cars will be parked along the fence at the stretch and along the half mile track. Sporting writers for various horse papers are making arrangements to be present the three days in Janesville will be given a big boost in the world of publicity by the coming meet.

WHITE SOX TO PLAY

BELOIT NINE SUNDAY

Janesville White Sox to Cross Bats With Beloit Athletics at Van Patten Diamond.

Wishing to forget the trouncing the Jefferson team gave the Janesville White Sox last Sunday, the Sox are vowing that they will give their opponents, the Beloit Athletics, a beating that will more than overshadow the one they were handed, when the two teams cross bats with the Beloiters Sunday afternoon at the Van Patten diamond at Beloit. It is expected that Mullen will be in better form than he was last Sunday, and if he is "right" the local players can concede no show for their opponents.

The Athletics have not been playing any too good brand of ball this season. Of the game with the long end of the score. The Beloit team played the Janesville Cubs and were successful in three of the contests, but when they crossed bats with the Braves, they day he thought of getting him off the field. The umpire waved his arm toward the bench, indicating that O'Connor would please beat it to the clubhouse. Jack stood at the third base line a while in doubt and then turned towards the dressing rooms, he had remembered about that $25,000 suit.

The Sox lineup will be: French; Cullen; P. Britt; St. Stickney; Dalton; B. McKinley; B. Cronin; Kennedy and Finerman, fielders.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

One of the old-time virtues, handed down to us by the right of inheritance, is modesty. Our mothers possessed it in such extreme form that they were sometimes considered prudish, and the daughter, chafing under restraint and rigid discipline in the home, often longed to escape and be independent.

But times have changed, and American women of the present generation have gone so far over to the other extreme in dress that modesty has been sacrificed to the fashion plate, and with the sacrifice has gone the choicest heritage ever possessed by womanhood.

Someone said very truthfully, the other day, that if American women were compelled to wear the tight-fitting skirts in which they parade today, regardless of form and figure, that they would feel most highly insulted, and they would certainly have occasion to.

Two of these generously proportioned dames, well along in years, and weighing anywhere from two hundred pounds up, attempted to board a train at Walworth, the other day. After hoisting their skirts above their knees, it required the combined efforts of the conductor and brakeman to hoist them aboard, amid the cheers of a crowd of men and boys, who witnessed the comedy.

The fatter the woman, the less cloth seems to be required to cover her nakedness, and when she sallies forth with a poodle dog under her arm, supporting a sash two feet below the belt line, she looks like a bale of hay, very poorly done up.

This class of women are usually old enough to take care of themselves and so unattractive in their tight-fitting costumes, as to protect them from insult, but the miserable fad is so generally adopted that our girls and young women go themselves out in the same shameless rigs, and then we profess to wonder why men stare at them on the street corners.

The modern costume is causing more trouble in the courts of justice today than any question except drunkenness. And the offenders are women—not bad women, but simply immodest women, carried away with a fad that will produce a blush of shame as soon as it runs its course, which it is bound to do, at no very distant date.

The choicest diadem in the jewel case of woman, is virtue, with reputation as a close second. Anything which weakens the latter, cheapens the former, and the tight-fitting skirt, whose only virtue is its length, is a bid for loss of reputation.

The woman of the street, carries so many earmarks of her profession that she is readily recognized by both men and women, and in many of the larger cities she is only permitted to appear on the streets in the segregated districts.

Cora Harris, who sometimes writes for the Saturday Evening Post, recently spent a month in New York City taking in the trotteries and other places of modern amusement. In giving her impression of New York women, on Broadway and Fifth avenue, she said that all women looked alike to her. The trade-marks of modesty had been sacrificed to the make-up of the madgalene, at the expense of reputation.

This is a startling statement, and coming from a woman who has been both wife and mother, it is worthy of careful consideration on the part of women writers, who seem to studiously avoid the subject.

The very grave question, which but few writers are yet attempting to answer, is: Why have our American women gone over to the present extreme in dress and what do they hope to accomplish? In a recent magazine article, says in substance that the agitation for equal suffrage, so universal throughout the land, has stimulated women with a desire for independence, and in attempting to assert her rights she has gone to all sorts of extremes. She regards the dress fad, the turkey trot and bunny hug, as expressions of this desire, and the shock of modesty, at first experienced, soon gives place to a reckless abandon and a wild infatuation which knows no bounds.

This loss of reputation is a universal loss. It means the towering of the standard, all along the line, and is one of the most deplorable features of the fashions now so prevalent. The dress itself is bad enough as paraded on the streets in every community, but when on exhibition in the dance halls with the wearer going through the motions of the modern trot, it surpasses for vulgarity the most disgusting side shows of the midway at the world's fair.

A gentleman and his wife stood on the veranda of a hotel at a summer resort, the other night, watching half a dozen couples as they gyrated through the fantastic movements of the "tango." They turned away disgusted, and said: "The Lord protect our daughters from that sort of demoralization."

A couple of young ladies, well dressed, and evidently from good homes, went into the dance hall of the McCallin hotel in New York, one evening not long ago, and sat down at a table to watch the revelry. They soon became infatuated and an hour later were smoking cigarettes and dancing with a couple of rascals from the tenement. No introduction was necessary, as independence of thought and action is a part of the loose creed.

Woman has long been the symbol of purity, and modesty has ever been a crowning virtue. The American woman has been more highly favored than the women of any other nation, and she enjoys today an exalted position among the people.

We demand much of our men, and are free to surround them with regulative and compulsory laws to aid them in keeping their feet in the straight and narrow path. We want our boys to grow up strong and stalwart, and much is done to protect them, but we depend on the home and the mother to shield our girls and surround them with influences which make for modesty and purity. The reforms of the last decade have been largely moral reforms. The public conscience has been quickened and standards have been elevated, along many lines, but if Miss Farbell is right, in regard to the cause of the present reckless attitude of women, we defy public sentiment in a desire to be independent, then at least one of our reform movements has gone too far.

The pendulum is bound to swing back, and when it does, many deluded women will wonder what possessed them during the days of their wild infatuation. The fancy dance and the skin-tight skirt belong to the vaudeville and the ballet dancer, but modesty will continue to be the crowning virtue of womanhood.

SCRIPTURE

Isaiah 55th Chapter—1st to 8th verses.

Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and that hath no money; come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price.

Wherefore you ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labor for that which satisfieth not? Hearken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness. Incline your ear, and come unto me: hear, and your soul shall live; and I will make an everlasting covenant with you, even the sure mercies of David.

Behold, I have given him for a witness to the people, a leader and commander to the people. Behold, thou shalt call a nation that thou knowest not, and nations that know thee shall run unto thee because of the Lord thy God, and for the Holy One of Israel; for he hath glorified thee.

Ye the Lord while He may be found, call ye upon him while he is near: Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon.

For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your way my ways, saith the Lord.

PURPORT

The Diary of a Bonehead.

I sometimes think that I was born a generation too early and no doubt every man who has a family coming up labors under the same impression. Last night I went with my daughter to a summer resort hotel to watch the dancers. They have a hop or perhaps it should be called a hop, skip and jump, at this hotel every night. My daughter has just reached the long-legged age, the age which is just between braids and tight skirts. She got me out onto the hall room floor in less time than it takes Woodrow Wilson to smash a precedent, which, I believe, is something under a second and a half.

I had danced since the days of the old-fashioned two-step and waltz, when people danced with their feet instead of their shoulder blades. I had taken about nine steps with my daughter when I was struck by a correct imitation of an Old-timey, close and swept off from my feet. I was rolled into the fringe of spectators and landed with my head in the lap of an ancient dowager who looked as though some kind old gentleman had recently died and left her about nine million dollars.

"Who hit me?" I asked of my daughter. "That was only the Tango," she replied. "Come, we will try again."

We tried again and in about a minute and a half some young representative of the beef trust landed on me and struck me right between the dining room and the kitchen with his head or his shoulder. It happened so quickly that I am shy on details. I landed in the dog house, better known as the bass viol.

"The bass viol," said my daughter, as I was picking myself up and trying to find out whether all of my working parts were properly assembled.

"Out of the way, grandpa," roared an elephantine young summer resort-er who was sailing by on his elbows and shoulder blades with a young woman's head cinched under his arm.

"That is the Taranula Gltde," said my daughter. All of the swell est dancers are doing it now. "Do they fight clear breaks or hit in the clinches?" I asked. "A young football player in duck trousers gave me a friendly push on the shoulder and sent me reeling through the door and out into the cold, cruel world. He and his girl were turning back hand springs. She had her chin hooked onto his shoulder and was gazing far, far away like a dying duck in the moonlight, and he had both arms wrapped around her waist with a hold that could not have been broken short of dynamite.

"That's the Frisco," said by daughter. "I saw every hold from a hammerlock to a half-Nelson and I saw acrobatic stunts that would make Barnum & Bailey look like a couple of pikers. I saw everything from the Trained Seal waddle to the Grizzly Bear hug and was knocked down fifteen times before I could impress my daughter with the fact that I am an old man with sneaky joints who can't get over the floor more than forty miles an hour even on high with the throttle wide open."

"If you stay at this resort, you have got to learn these dances," said my daughter, firmly. "You can't be an old fogey here."

We are back home. Advice to Young Ladies. Before you give your answer, Before you have been won, Look him up in Bradstreet, Look him up in Dun.

Marry one for love? Sure. All young ladies do. But while you are a-doing it, Get the boodle, too.

According to Uncle Abner. We heard of a man in this town who sat in a poker game five straight hours. All of that time he had only one pair and that was a pair of suspenders.

A Story and a Half Bungalow—By John Henry Newson

Home of Character No. 146

In this design the effect of the bungalow is kept, and the long and low effect of the house is made possible by carrying the roof over the porch and projecting a double dormer on the front, forming alcoves to the bedrooms.

The living room is entered through a vestibule, and a den is placed at the rear of this room. The advantages of an extra, small room on the first floor are many. The one item of lighting will in time pay for its cost. The general tendency of late years has been to divide the first floor into living room, dining room and kitchen, but where it is possible to add a small room without undue increase in cost, I believe it is advisable, but this should not be done by decreasing the living room, which should be as large as possible. The dining room is connected with the living room by a cased opening, and with the kitchen by a convenient pantry.

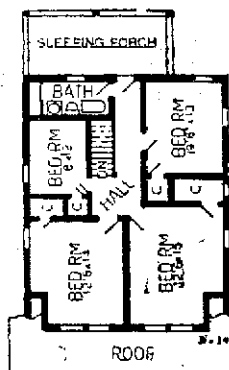

First Floor.

The Evening Chit-Chat
BY RUTH CAMERON

THE SWORD OF DAMOCLES.

DO YOU ever hear the story of Damocles? Doubtless you have often heard the expression, "The sword of Damocles" but did you ever think of the incident from which this expression comes? I never did until just the other day, and then I was so deeply impressed by its significance that I am giving it to you.

In the court of an ancient monarch, the elder Dionysius, tyrant of Syracuse, a man named Damocles extolled the happiness of royalty to flatter his master. The tyrant was displeased and this is the way he punished his subject: He summoned Damocles to the palace, and had him seated at a table richly set, and served as if he were the king.

"This is happiness," thought Damocles. But to his horror, he saw a sword lowered from the ceiling over his head, where it hung suspended only by a hair. He then appreciated the suspense from which kings suffer.

Of course you would not choose to be in Damocles' place. You would not for worlds sit under a real sword, suspended by a hair. But do you never fashion from your imagination other swords of senseless worries or groundless fears, and sit fearful beneath them? It may be that you have not heard today from your husband, who is away on a business trip. Or that there is an epidemic of measles, and your daughter has promptly caught them. Or that your employer spoke brusquely to you this morning.

Do you immediately fear your husband has been killed in a wreck? And suffer all the pangs of bereavement? Do you wonder if measles might not be fatal in Nan's case? Or decide you might as well look for another position?

If you do, you deliberately put yourself in just as uncomfortable a position as Damocles was in. The only thing he suffered was suspense—disorganizing, terrifying suspense.

I am speaking only of senseless worries and groundless fears, which, if you will stop to think, are the kind of worries and fears from which you usually suffer. The last time your husband "failed to write," proved to be a delay in the mail. Or your daughter came through a sickness with colors flying. Or your employer told you you were the best stenographer he ever had.

Little swords of Damocles are what your worries and fears really are. The sword that falls comes like a bolt from the blue—you don't know anything about it till it's all over.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS
BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will you please give me a list of some odd names with the first letter B, for a girl?

(2) Also some pretty names for a boy, with the letter M?

(3) Please tell me how I can take a mole off the back of my neck?

Mrs. B. W. Bernice, Babette, Bertelle, Beth, Betina.

(1) I can only recommend that the mole be cut off by a surgeon. A curative acid would take it off, but it is too dangerous to be handled by an inexperienced person and you might be scarred for your life.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I enjoy reading your piece in the paper. Sometimes I think I could read a whole page that you write, or more. I am eighteen years of age.

(1) What can I do to make my arms fat?

(2) I have blue eyes and real light hair; do you think a blond type prettier than a brunette?

(3) Would you have anything to do with a young man if he just came around to see you when he and his best girl are in a spat? And when they are on a spat he claims he loves me.

READER. The good old-fashioned remedy my dear, was to scrub floors and do the family washing. But modern girls would rather massage their arms with cocoa butter. Eat nourishing food, breathe a lot of fresh air and when you walk, swing your arms. Help mother with the housework, too. Managing a broom will do a lot to make your arms pretty.

(2) I think young girls who are sweet and unspoiled, without vanity, with their own hair prettily combed and their own complexions without any paint or powder, are the prettiest things in the world, no matter what color of hair or complexion they have.

(3) I think I would laugh at him. He seems to be making a convenience of you. He probably likes you as he would a sister to whom he can tell his troubles.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1) I have just completed a story to be given in series in a magazine.

It is pathetic and to all whom I read it I have caused tears and praise. I therefore wish to send it to some good magazine. Please select one for me. (2) Also tell me what is a fair price. (3) Do you write on one side of paper, and does it make any difference if with ink or pencil? (4) Who must give pictures? If I must, how can I secure them?

(1) I cannot venture to advise you what magazine you should send your story to. Better stop in at the book store and look over the magazines there, then select the one you think would be suitable for your story. You will find the publisher's name and address on the title page of the magazine. (2) The price is what the editor thinks best. Unknown writers seldom get a large price. (3) You should write on one side of paper only and have your manuscript typewritten if possible; otherwise use ink and write plainly. Do not roll the manuscript when sending it, but wrap it flat. (4) Unless you have photographs to illustrate your story, the magazine will attend to the illustrating.

Uncle Walt. The poet philosopher. Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams. BY WALT MASON.

The years shouldn't count when we're staling our age, for some men are young when they're gray, and others are ere they've journeyed a stage in this world and its wonderful way. I know an old graybeard who ought to be dead if years laid a man by the heels; he cheerily sings as he counts the years on his head.

"A man's just as old as he feels." The years do not age us so badly in truth; it's worry that makes the blood cold, the man who is blessed with the spirit of youth is young when a hundred years old; the graybeard I met of his laughs and he yells and dances Virginia reels, and always ever his roundelay swells: "A man's just as old as he feels." No man should admit that his days are near told, or talk of the past with a sob; no man should admit that he's growing too old to eat summer ear corn from the cob; the graybeard I speak of, he's slicker than grease, he cheers up the world with his spits, he says, and his words suggest comfort and peace. A man's spits, he says, (and his words just as old as he feels.) I know a young man who is thirty or less, in years, but he's old as the hills; he goes around looking for grief, and distress, and talks by the day of his ills. The graybeard, God bless him, is younger than that! He n'er at the waiting place kneels; he chortles, whistling a hole through his hat: "A man's just as old as he feels!"

Mother! Have Your Children Worms? Irritable, feverish, restless, nervous, irritable, dizzy, or constipated. Do they continually pick their noses or grind their teeth? Have they crampy palms, irregular and ravenous appetites? These are all signs of worms. Worms not only cause your child suffering, but stunt his mind and growth. Give "Kickapoo Worm Killer" at once. It kills and removes the worms, improves your child's appetite, regulates stomach, liver and bowels. The symptoms disappear and your child is made happy and healthy, as nature intended. Simple Menus for Sunday. One of the most conspicuous errors in the modern diet is complicated dishes and too many things served at the same meal.

Many articles of natural food contain from two to six different chemical elements. A properly selected meal therefore might be composed of the elements of nourishment the body would require.

The kitchen has been the domain of woman for many thousand years; what ambition she possessed had no other way of manifesting itself except to excel in the preparation of food. This has led here into complications and has fixed the standard of a good meal by the number of things composing it. The modern chef is merely the lineal descendant of our grandmothers, who has inherited the disposition to fix up and mix food into endless combinations, utterly regardless of the chemical effect one article may have upon another.

Two of the most serious errors of the modern diet are inharmonious combinations of food served at the same meal and over-elaborate complicated dishes and too great a variety of food supply the causes for both these mistakes.

Berries with Chopped Nuts. Very Ripe Bananas with Cereal. —half and half.

Whole Wheat Biscuit. Orange Marmalade. Coffee with Hot Milk.

Red raspberries or blueberries are planned for Sunday breakfast with mixed chopped nuts—about one heaping teaspoonful to each adult. Select bananas which are thoroughly ripe and with the coarse fiber well removed to make them perfectly digestible, and sliced very thin with Breakfast. Boiled Corn. Vegetable Salad. Whole Wheat Bread and Butter. Grape or Pineapple Juice.

The cantaloupe should be cold and served in halves and seeds removed. The custom of filling with ice when serving, is an unnecessary one and serves to keep the fruit from ripening. The cantaloupe should be cut and ready to serve in the refrigerator. All materials for the salad, such as radishes, lettuce, onions, tomatoes, carrots or cucumbers, should all be cleaned and in a nap or cloth in the refrigerator Saturday. Then it is no trouble whatever to make the dressing at the table and serve.

Dinner. Cheese Omelet. Stuffed Tomatoes. Whole Wheat Bread and Butter. Watermelon. Small Coffee.

Make a plain omelet and when ready to serve, sprinkle with one-half cup of grated cheese, browned and put onto a hot platter. The tomatoes should be prepared all ready to bake Saturday or right after breakfast, according to the following recipe, as this will give the necessary starched food.

Stuffed Tomatoes. Material—Tomatoes, six; boiled rice, one-half pint; onion, one; butter, one teaspoonful; salt, one-half teaspoonful; pepper, one suit spoonful.

Directions—Cut a slice from the top of each tomato, and scoop out the seeds. Mix the rice, onion, salt and pepper and add the butter. Melted. Fill the tomatoes with the rice and put on the lid or slice that you have taken from the top. Bake them in a baking pan and bake in a quick oven thirty minutes. These take the place of both a starchy and succulent vegetable at either luncheon or dinner.

The beetles are cooked the day previous and peeled when cool. Slice and reheat with butter, pepper and salt.

matos with the rice and put on the lid or slice that you have taken from the top. Bake them in a baking pan and bake in a quick oven thirty minutes. These take the place of both a starchy and succulent vegetable at either luncheon or dinner.

The beetles are cooked the day previous and peeled when cool. Slice and reheat with butter, pepper and salt.

COOKERY consists of the knowledge of ingredients and the judicious management of heat.

TIPS FOR THE TIRED.

During the season of much laundry work have the bath towels all of Turkish toweling, so that there may be no ironing. Underwear of knitted goods, seersucker or crepe. Night dresses can be bought of seersucker which need no ironing.

Work dresses of seersucker are another saving in ironing.

Use a fireless cooker to save the heat and expense as well as the time of overseeing the cooking.

Have picnic meals sometimes; break away from the iron-clad rules and enjoy the summer weather.

Do the hard and warm work early in the day. It is wonderful the amount of work that can be done in an hour before other people are interrupting.

Hunt up those books that you promised yourself you would read, go to the woods, if you can, if not, to a shady nook and take an hour or two of quiet.

In these days of nervous breakdowns, the ceaseless round of toll can be greatly lessened if a day or an hour once in a while can be taken in quiet, where one can get acquainted with one's own ideas and not lose all individuality. These frazzled nerves must have repose. For the woman who has too much solitude, society is the remedy; seeing people and broadening one's views by conversation, not gossip.

Somebody has said that there are three classes of people, those who talk about people, those who talk about things, and those who discuss ideas; the last, of course, is the highest form of culture. Let us watch our conversation and see that we are not in the lowest class.

One good woman who found a treasure of a maid and wanted to keep her from the bait of her best friend with higher wages, told her at the end of a year, if she would remain with her two years longer she would make her a present of fifty dollars. It is something to work for, and nobody has succeeded in coaxing her away. A smaller sum might be sufficient to hold some of our maids, who are always ready to move at the highest bidder's terms.

Revised Version. "I suppose that when you left the convention you exclaimed: 'I came, I saw, I conquered.'" "Not exactly," replied the delegate who changed his mind. "That is what I was going to say, but I modified it to 'I came, I was seen, I conquered.'" S. B.

The graybeard, God bless him, is younger than that! He n'er at the waiting place kneels; he chortles, whistling a hole through his hat: "A man's just as old as he feels!"

Mother! Have Your Children Worms? Irritable, feverish, restless, nervous, irritable, dizzy, or constipated. Do they continually pick their noses or grind their teeth? Have they crampy palms, irregular and ravenous appetites? These are all signs of worms. Worms not only cause your child suffering, but stunt his mind and growth. Give "Kickapoo Worm Killer" at once. It kills and removes the worms, improves your child's appetite, regulates stomach, liver and bowels. The symptoms disappear and your child is made happy and healthy, as nature intended. Simple Menus for Sunday. One of the most conspicuous errors in the modern diet is complicated dishes and too many things served at the same meal.

Many articles of natural food contain from two to six different chemical elements. A properly selected meal therefore might be composed of the elements of nourishment the body would require.

The kitchen has been the domain of woman for many thousand years; what ambition she possessed had no other way of manifesting itself except to excel in the preparation of food. This has led here into complications and has fixed the standard of a good meal by the number of things composing it. The modern chef is merely the lineal descendant of our grandmothers, who has inherited the disposition to fix up and mix food into endless combinations, utterly regardless of the chemical effect one article may have upon another.

Two of the most serious errors of the modern diet are inharmonious combinations of food served at the same meal and over-elaborate complicated dishes and too great a variety of food supply the causes for both these mistakes.

Berries with Chopped Nuts. Very Ripe Bananas with Cereal. —half and half.

Whole Wheat Biscuit. Orange Marmalade. Coffee with Hot Milk.

Red raspberries or blueberries are planned for Sunday breakfast with mixed chopped nuts—about one heaping teaspoonful to each adult. Select bananas which are thoroughly ripe and with the coarse fiber well removed to make them perfectly digestible, and sliced very thin with Breakfast. Boiled Corn. Vegetable Salad. Whole Wheat Bread and Butter. Grape or Pineapple Juice.

The cantaloupe should be cold and served in halves and seeds removed. The custom of filling with ice when serving, is an unnecessary one and serves to keep the fruit from ripening. The cantaloupe should be cut and ready to serve in the refrigerator. All materials for the salad, such as radishes, lettuce, onions, tomatoes, carrots or cucumbers, should all be cleaned and in a nap or cloth in the refrigerator Saturday. Then it is no trouble whatever to make the dressing at the table and serve.

Dinner. Cheese Omelet. Stuffed Tomatoes. Whole Wheat Bread and Butter. Watermelon. Small Coffee.

Make a plain omelet and when ready to serve, sprinkle with one-half cup of grated cheese, browned and put onto a hot platter. The tomatoes should be prepared all ready to bake Saturday or right after breakfast, according to the following recipe, as this will give the necessary starched food.

Stuffed Tomatoes. Material—Tomatoes, six; boiled rice, one-half pint; onion, one; butter, one teaspoonful; salt, one-half teaspoonful; pepper, one suit spoonful.

Directions—Cut a slice from the top of each tomato, and scoop out the seeds. Mix the rice, onion, salt and pepper and add the butter. Melted. Fill the tomatoes with the rice and put on the lid or slice that you have taken from the top. Bake them in a baking pan and bake in a quick oven thirty minutes. These take the place of both a starchy and succulent vegetable at either luncheon or dinner.

The beetles are cooked the day previous and peeled when cool. Slice and reheat with butter, pepper and salt.

COOKERY consists of the knowledge of ingredients and the judicious management of heat.

TIPS FOR THE TIRED.

During the season of much laundry work have the bath towels all of Turkish toweling, so that there may be no ironing. Underwear of knitted goods, seersucker or crepe. Night dresses can be bought of seersucker which need no ironing.

Work dresses of seersucker are another saving in ironing.

Use a fireless cooker to save the heat and expense as well as the time of overseeing the cooking.

Have picnic meals sometimes; break away from the iron-clad rules and enjoy the summer weather.

Do the hard and warm work early in the day. It is wonderful the amount of work that can be done in an hour before other people are interrupting.

Hunt up those books that you promised yourself you would read, go to the woods, if you can, if not, to a shady nook and take an hour or two of quiet.

In these days of nervous breakdowns, the ceaseless round of toll can be greatly lessened if a day or an hour once in a while can be taken in quiet, where one can get acquainted with one's own ideas and not lose all individuality. These frazzled nerves must have repose. For the woman who has too much solitude, society is the remedy; seeing people and broadening one's views by conversation, not gossip.

Somebody has said that there are three classes of people, those who talk about people, those who talk about things, and those who discuss ideas; the last, of course, is the highest form of culture. Let us watch our conversation and see that we are not in the lowest class.

One good woman who found a treasure of a maid and wanted to keep her from the bait of her best friend with higher wages, told her at the end of a year, if she would remain with her two years longer she would make her a present of fifty dollars. It is something to work for, and nobody has succeeded in coaxing her away. A smaller sum might be sufficient to hold some of our maids, who are always ready to move at the highest bidder's terms.

Revised Version. "I suppose that when you left the convention you exclaimed: 'I came, I saw, I conquered.'" "Not exactly," replied the delegate who changed his mind. "That is what I was going to say, but I modified it to 'I came, I was seen, I conquered.'" S. B.

The years shouldn't count when we're staling our age, for some men are young when they're gray, and others are ere they've journeyed a stage in this world and its wonderful way. I know an old graybeard who ought to be dead if years laid a man by the heels; he cheerily sings as he counts the years on his head.

"A man's just as old as he feels." The years do not age us so badly in truth; it's worry that makes the blood cold, the man who is blessed with the spirit of youth is young when a hundred years old; the graybeard I met of his laughs and he yells and dances Virginia reels, and always ever his roundelay swells: "A man's just as old as he feels." No man should admit that his days are near told, or talk of the past with a sob; no man should admit that he's growing too old to eat summer ear corn from the cob; the graybeard I speak of, he's slicker than grease, he cheers up the world with his spits, he says, and his words suggest comfort and peace. A man's spits, he says, (and his words just as old as he feels.) I know a young man who is thirty or less, in years, but he's old as the hills; he goes around looking for grief, and distress, and talks by the day of his ills. The graybeard, God bless him, is younger than that! He n'er at the waiting place kneels; he chortles, whistling a hole through his hat: "A man's just as old as he feels!"

OLIVE OIL.

Under the Pure Food Law all oil made from olives is pure olive oil, yet there is as much difference in olive oil as there is in butter.

Cheap olive oil is made from olives that through cause of decay, insects or storms fall to the ground. Sound, healthy olives stay on the trees until ripe, like our apples. They are then gathered, the oil pressed without heat. This is virgin olive oil. The second pressing is obtained with steam and hot water which is known as a fine table oil. The rich flavor and medicinal properties are found only in the virgin oil which is of a greenish-yellow color. It is very nutritious. Used in nervous diseases is a mild laxative; has a great reputation as a remedy for stones in the bladder, and is a skin food and complexion beautifier through its action on the liver. The supply of this virgin oil is always limited. It is quickly bought up for medicinal purposes and found only in drug stores. Mr. Fiebig, our Graduate Pharmacist and Chemist, personally tests our olive oil. We are therefore positive of obtaining the true virgin oil imported direct from Southern France. We sell it at 40c one-half pint, 75c a full pint bottle. Get it at our store, The Badger Drug Co., Milwaukee & River streets. The Drug Store that makes a specialty of Drugs.

Michigan in Summer
